

Documentation

Complete CSE Style consists of two elements:

- An intext citation is the point in your paper where you are presenting information borrowed from a source or where you are referring to research;
- x A Cited References list giving complete publication information for all sources cited in the paper (except for personal communications).

Guidelines for papers and online sources:

- x Place the author's name and the year of publication in parentheses, as in example 1. If the author's name appears in the sentence as in example 2 do not include it in the citation.
- x Place the closing period for the sentence after the parenthetical citation, as in example 1.
- x Note that parenthetical citations should only be included for direct quotes.

In-text citations: personal communications

Example 13	Example 14	Example 15
In 2002, the profits doubled (2006-mail from M DiSano to me; unreferenced).	According to Bell, the organization's CEO, the company's profits doubled in 2002 (2003 interview between Althouse and me; unreferenced).	Critics at the time panned the film, which is now regarded as a masterpiece (2012 lecture by K Spur from GEO 300; unreferenced).

Sample CSE reference entries

Journal article (online & paper-based)

Guidelines:

- x Capitalize only the first letter of the first word of the article title, but capitalize the first letter of all keywords of JOURNAL titles. J Clin Invest is the abbreviation for the Journal of Clinical Investigation. Some professors prefer the full journal name, so be sure to
- x After the journal title, put a period followed by the volume number in brackets if present, and then the page range. If the journal uses article numbers instead of pages, replace the page range with the article number. For online articles, include the URL. Remove University of Calgary if it is available (some older articles may not have one)
- x If the article is a specific type, put the title in square brackets as in the Wellen and Hotamisligil reference.

Journal article (forthcoming)

Guidelines:

- x Follow the instructions for a journal article, and include as much information as possible
- x Before the date, add the word forthcoming.

Magazine article (online & paper-based)

Guidelines

- x For magazine articles retrieved online, give the URL of the magazine's home page
- x Include the full date and the volume number, issue number, and page range, if available

Article in a daily newspaper (online & paper-based)

Guidelines:

- x For print newspaper references, ensure that you note the section of the paper, page number, and column.

Books (online & paper-based)

Guidelines:

- x Capitalize only the first letter of proper nouns and the first word of book titles.
- x Include the place of publication and the state or province abbreviation in brackets, for clarification or to avoid confusion, followed by a colon and the name of the publisher. (pagination) is optional. For books available online (i.e. e-books), include the DOI (and/or the URL if a DOI is not available).

Article or chapter in an edited book (online & paper-based)

Guidelines:

- x Include editors' names (surnames then initials), and page range prefaced by "ed(s)." or "eds."

Encyclopedia or reference work entry (online & paper-based)

Guidelines:

- x Begin with the author's or editor's name(s) if available.

Technical and research reports

Guidelines:

- For paper-based reports, include the location and publisher, as you would for a book. If your citation used an abbreviation, start the entry with
- x Include the report number (Report No. :) before the title.

Conference papers and abstracts

Guidelines:

- x List the dates of the conference followed by the location (2009, DE). Include page numbers, or abstract number, where available at the end of the reference.
- x When relying on the copyright rather than publication date, place a year before the
- x When citing only the abstract, include [abstract] after the

Thesis or dissertation

Guidelines:

- x Note in square brackets whether the document is a dissertation (PhD) or a master's thesis (MA or MSc).
- x Identify the location of the university followed by the name of the degree program. If the location is unlisted but obtainable from another source, place the location in square brackets.

Web sites

Guidelines:

- x Begin with the author's name; if no author or corporate author can be identified, begin with the title instead. The second sample entry above, with no author, would be cited in a paper as follows: (Ca
